Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 28 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Early rain clearing to a dry, bright and mild day.

Today:
Any early rain soon clearing to leave a dry, breezy but increasingly bright day with plenty of sunny spells developing by late morning. Winds will slowly ease through the afternoon and it will feel mild for all. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry at first before a spell of heavy rain pushes in and clears again by midnight. Thereafter, breezy with clear spells and scattered heavy showers but staying rather mild. Minimum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Friday:
Cloudy in the morning with outbreaks of heavy rain spreading across all areas. Becoming brighter for a time, before skies cloud over again by the evening. Feeling colder later. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Cloudy and breezy on Saturday with outbreaks of rain and possible snow. Bright on Sunday and Monday with a risk of light snow overnight. Cold with widespread frost.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.